Following the opening round of the 2025 FIM Enduro World Championship at Fafe in Portugal in early April, the series has travelled east this weekend to the foothills of the Pyrenees where the spectacular surroundings of Oliana in the Catalonia region of Spain await competitors.

As I am sure you will agree, the Segre Valley is an incredible location for such a demanding series as the Paulo Duarte FIM EnduroGP World Championship and we can expect to see the very best riders in the world pushed to their limits.

Since it first took control of the series reins in 2022, promoter Prime Stadium Events has continuously raised the bar in its ongoing quest to expand the global reach of this exciting and demanding discipline.

The long-established Portuguese-based promoter has a mandate that runs until 2031 and I am very happy to know that the sport we all share so much passion for is in such safe hands as Prime Stadium Events continues to innovate, further strengthening its reputation for smooth-running, inclusive and professional events.

For 2025 the series has been extended to eight rounds and from Oliana competitors will travel to this year's most northerly event at Skövde in Sweden the following month before the next stop on the calendar in Bacău in Romania in June ahead of a well-earned break followed by a return to Rhayader in Wales at the start of August.

The series concludes with an intensive run of three rounds – starting at Réquista in France in mid- September before continuing onto Darfo Barrio Terme in Italy and then Zschopau in Germany – in the space of just five weeks that will test the fortitude of even the sport's elite stars.

This season will see the introduction of the FIM Junior Enduro Women's World Cup category, created to further encourage young female athletes into the sport and to act as an important stepping stone for those competing in world championship level enduro for the first time. This will be contested over four rounds – Portugal, Wales, France and Germany – alongside the FIM Women's Enduro World Championship.

I would like to wish everyone involved a safe and successful weekend of racing here in Oliana.

Jorge Viegas

FIM President

On behalf of the FIM I would like to extend a very warm welcome to Oliana and the GP of Spain, round two of the 2025 FIM Enduro World Championship.

The Catalan region of Spain is famed for its diverse mix of terrain that is so well suited to such a demanding series as the Paulo Duarte FIM EnduroGP World Championship and with four weeks between the opening round at Fafe in Portugal and this weekend's action, competitors should by now be fully prepared to take on the challenges that lie ahead over the next two days.

Situated in the foothills of the Pyrenees in the Segre Valley, Oliana's dramatic landscape also makes it a world-famous destination for rock climbers and it is these challenging surroundings that ensure it is so ideally suited to such a specialised discipline as Enduro in which rider and machine are pitted against both the terrain and the elements.

Of course, titles are never won so early on in the season, but they can easily be lost so consistency will be key this weekend as riders aim to continue laying the foundations that they hope to build upon as the year progresses.

With the series extended to eight rounds this season and with Portugal already consigned to the history books for another year, after leaving Spain riders can expect to be further challenged by events in Skövde in Sweden and Bacău in Romania before moving into the second half of the season at the beginning of August at Rhayader in Wales.

From Wales the action will shift to Réquista in France and Darfo Barrio Terme in Italy before the season comes to a thrilling climax at Zschopau in Germany in mid-October.

As I am sure you will all agree, it is an incredibly tough schedule, although Enduro racers are an incredibly tough breed and fully expect to be pushed to their limits if they are to achieve the ultimate accolade of an FIM Enduro World Championship title.

A championship like this is by no means an easy undertaking and with this in mind, on behalf of the FIM I would like to thank our promoter Prime Stadium Events, this weekend's organising club and all the other local organisers involved in the series along with the national federations, FIM officials, volunteers, riders, teams, media, sponsors and, of course, you the fans.

Moto Club Director

Dear riders, teams, and fans,

It is an honor to welcome you to the Enduro World Championship race, held in Oliana. A highly anticipated event to enjoy the high level of competition and experience the passion, adrenaline, and values that characterize this sport.

The town of Oliana and its surroundings provide the perfect setting for this event. The combination of mountains, forests, and trails offer perfect conditions to put authentic enduro racing to the test. An unforgettable experience for competitors and spectators.

We are proud to be part of the international calendar and have put all our dedication and effort into bringing the sound of engines, the smell of gasoline, and the best enduro atmosphere back to Oliana.

We would like to ask you to show the utmost respect for our environment so we can continue to enjoy this passion. We also want to thank everyone involved in the organization, the volunteers, and the sponsors for making this Enduro World Championship possible.

We hope that these days in Oliana will be unbeatable for experiencing authentic enduro racing and discovering our territory.

INFORMATION

For participants

If you decide to abandon the competition, you must go to the nearest checkpoint and the organization staff will indicate the most suitable route to follow so as not to hinder other participants.

When you reach the paddock, you must notify the timing staff of your abandonment. Along the route, apart from the direction, prohibition and caution signs, you will find some reference points (PR), with an identification number, to facilitate their location if necessary.

You can use the showers and changing rooms in the municipal pavilion on Saturday throughout the day.
